In keeping with the fundamentally friendly focus of police service, police training institutions globally operate with the purpose of imparting relevant professional skills to cope with increasing challenges of 21st Century.

Not trivial but essence of character building is focus, we want others to divert their focus towards it too

It is another milestone for this institution that the trainees themselves have published its first ever quarterly newsletter

Message of the Inspector General of Punjab Police

Police training institutions globally operate with the purpose of imparting skills to cope with re-increased sophistication of criminal activities and at the same time keeping public service at the forefront. I commend the efforts of Commandant and his staff in introducing new modules such as Crime Scene Investigation, syndicate discussion, daily class presentations, individual research papers, Geo-fencing and CDR analysis, media management, stress plus anger management skills. I am sure it will go a long way in reforming the basic structure of policing in Punjab in line with the vision of the present government. It gives me a sense of achievement to see that Punjab Police is now recruiting officers into its rank and file on merit. They are inculcated with ideals of justice, fair play and rule of law during training. We are confident that these young officers will bring the desired change in Investigation practices and "Thana Culture" and play a pivotal role in protecting the life and property of our citizen.

Message of the Addl: Inspector General of Police, Training Punjab

Training carries the utmost importance in equipping an individual with the relevant skills for the efficient discharge of responsibilities. For the said purpose, training modules are specifically designed with the focus on developing professional standards and ethical values in trainees.

In this modern era of technology, use of modern technology and gadgetry in preventions and detection of crime has gained ultimate importance. Steps taken by Commandant PC Sihala in equipping trainees necessary training with modern techniques are indeed commendable.

Message of the Commandant Police College, Sihala

It is another milestone for this Institution that the trainees themselves have published its first ever quarterly newsletter. This newsletter would present a quarterly review of academic, extra-curricular and administrative activities in the college. Keeping in view the Police Reforms as our basic policy paradigm, Police College, Sihala has to play a pivotal role in training Police Personnel by bringing about a positive change in their attitude and enhance their capabilities. To achieve this end an immersive training regime has been introduced which is based on not only making professional police officers but also civil and good human beings. This publication will contribute and highlight this effort. I appreciate the efforts of the Editorial Board including both faculty and trainees of Police College Sihala for this quality publication.
